Veteran's Powwow

By Zachary N. Dunaiski

This year's Veteran's Powwow was another great success that filled the campgrounds all weekend long with vibrant colors.

Tom Whitebird, Veterans Services Officer, said after this year's Powwow, that it was amazing. He even had many people who spoke to him about all the different places they came from to visit this year's event. It was one of the biggest and best Veteran's Powwows Fond du Lac has hosted.

The beautiful images accompanying this article were taken by Ivy Vainio. Ivy did a phenomenal job of capturing the sights and all of the radiant colors. She has a very artistic eye and does excellent work.

Thank you to Tom, Ivy, and everyone who helped make this year's Powwow and great success.

The mission of this publication is to provide the Anishinaabeg community of the Fond du Lac Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, Fond du Lac Reservation, with news and information that will be of help to them in their everyday lives. In addition, our goal will be to highlight many of the honors, accolades, accomplishments and awards that are earned by community members but are mostly overlooked by the mass mainstream media.

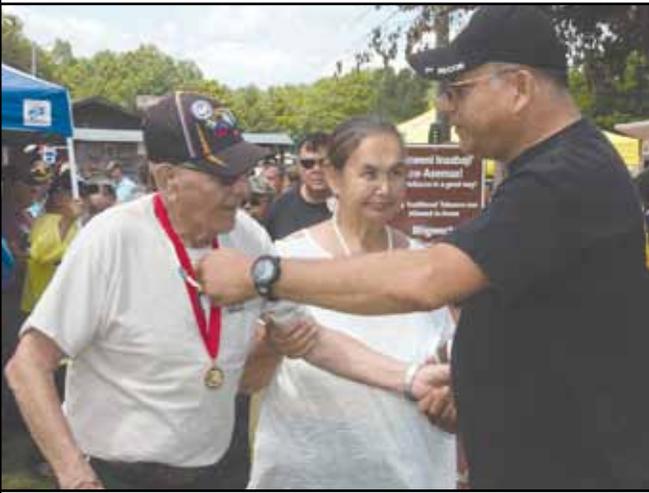

It is our hope that through greater information about the activities of our people, this publication can be an instrument of true community. It is not our intention to be a vehicle of divisiveness.

To that end, we do not publish editorials, opinion pieces or letters to the editor. There is an abundance of opportunity for the publishing, airing and dissemination of material of personal opinion in other communication vehicles available throughout the area, region and state.

Our mission is to provide for Fond du Lac Anishinaabeg a publication that will not dismiss their culture, heritage, hopes and dreams. We are striving to make this newspaper fill that role.

Sawyer News

Boozhoo,

Summer is flying by, this past month Enrollee Days and FDL Veteran's Powwow was a great success. Miigwetch to the community for your participation and I would like to congratulate the new Fond du Lac Royalty. Every young person who participated showed courage and leadership. I hope we continue to see more youth participate in community events. Leadership skills are taught in many ways; parents and families keep encouraging your youth, we are seeing a positive difference with higher graduation rates, which already improves our outlook in the future. Also this past month the FDL 6th grade boys got 5th place in the Great 4 Championship Pacesetters Tournament that included the 12 best teams from Minn., N.D., S.D. and Iowa. The school year is around the corner and it's never too early to start planning for a successful start to the school year. I would like to welcome our new Executive Director Miyah Danielson and our new Human Services Director Samuel Moose. Services will continue to be of high quality and responsive to the needs and growth of the Band. This past month the Elders Picnic was well attended. It was nice to visit and talk about programs and services in the community. The Journey Garden youth are doing a great job selling their vegetables and herbs. The Economic Development Committee is putting together a plan to create a directory of Band member owned small businesses. If you are interested in having your business listed, please contact that Board to be included in the publication. The 4H Sawyer Ogichidaag youth did a great job sharing their strawberries at the Veteran's Powwow and thanks to everyone who donated to the group. The MCT Constitutional Convention is also being discussed on a regular basis, please check the website for meetings in near future. The Broadband kick off began July 27 in Sawyer. Lastly, there was an open meeting in Minneapolis that went very well, and the Brookston open meeting is August 17. The end of July culminated with the Kiwenz Language Camp in Sawyer. Miigwetch, to the volunteers and staff that help coordinate this great event. Bruce M. Savage, Sawyer District Rep. (218)390-7407

Boozhoo,

We have been quite busy this past month. The Tribal Executive Committee (TEC) has scheduled meetings to discuss constitutional revision. The first three are scheduled out for August 21 & 22 in Mille Lacs, September 25 & 26 in Boise Forte and October 23 & 24 in White Earth. The rest of the meetings necessary will be scheduled by the people at the meetings. The agenda has not been set nor has the contents of the changes been decided. That will be decided at the meetings. If you are interested in participating or keeping up with the progress please keep an eye on the FDL webpage. The Veterans Powwow was a huge success. The committee scheduled a contest for Brave and Princess on Friday evening with quite an impressive turnout. The contestants were well prepared and did a wonderful job. The winners were introduced on Saturday to a rousing applause before 500 + dancers. The veteran line went around the powwow circle almost twice with plenty of proud smiling faces. The Minnesota National Guard was here again and thank you to General Nash for the fly over by his helicopter. Thanks also to Jarvis (Chubby) Paro, Tom Whitebird, FDL police, the cleanup workers, the cooks and a special thanks to Val Whitebird for her efforts to make the royalty contest a success. Each year FDL is a stopping point for the Healing Circle Run put on through the Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission. When the runners arrive they select a site to hold an evening ceremony and a morning ceremony. This year Chamber's Grove was selected as the site. The ceremony is for healing of the runners and the community in general. This year's site is next to the construction site that disturbed several gravesites of our ancestors. I can't think of a more appropriate site to be asking for healing this year. The last thing I would like to touch on this month is the Elder's picnic. Each of the last 10 years I have enjoyed coming there and seeing all of the participants enjoy the festivities, to share a moment to catch up or just say hi. The day was changed from the first Friday to the second Friday in July. The second Friday has been the day for the Elders tournament at Black Bear and I already committed to that. My wife has volunteered to go to the Elder's picnic and mingle with you for me. I think that most of you will like that better. If you have any questions or comments please feel free to contact me. My office number is (218)878-8158 or you can e-mail at ferdinandmartineau@fdlrez.com Gigawaabamin

Ferdinand Martineau

North American Indigenous Games

The 2017 North American Indigenous Games that were held in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, July 20 featured a Fond du Lac athlete. Justice Paro was the only athlete from FDL that participated in the games. She played on the Minnesota 14U team that brought home a bronze medal.

There were 5 teams from Minnesota that went to compete in the basketball portion of the games. There were 14 different sports to compete in and over 5000 Indigenous athletes competing from across the United States and Canada.

Team Minnesota brought home a gold medal at the men's 14U division, a silver medal at the men's 19U division, and two bronze medals at the men's 16U and the women's 14U division. Also competing was the women's 16U division team which finished in 5th place.

New Executive Director, Miyah Danielson

As Fond du Lac prepares to say goodbye to longtime Fond du Lac employee Chuck Walt, we welcomed in his replacement July 17, Miyah Danielson.

The RBC selected Miyah to be the new Executive Director of Tribal Programs replacing Chuck who has held the job since Feb. 2010.

Miyah, an FDL Band member, is the oldest daughter of David Danielson (FDL) and Frances Wabaunsee (Prairie Band Potawatomi). Before starting with FDL, Miyah lived in Mayetta, Kansas.

"Through my higher educational and professional work experiences, I have made it an effort to actively demonstrate to my children what positive school and work ethics to inhabit over the course of the years," Miyah said in her introductory letter to the FDL Band.

"They have seen me obtain my Associates of Arts in Science and Business (2005) and witnessed me receiving a double major in Bachelors of Science in Business and Tribal Management (2008) both from Haskell Indian Nations University. Upon graduating in 2008, I went straight into the workforce at the Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation Reservation in Mayetta, Kansas. There, I have continuously worked in the Tribal Judicial Council and was appointed by the Administrative District Court Judge as the Clerk of the District Court where I served for the last eight years. Four years ago and still working full-time, I decided to pursue my Masters of Business Administration degree. Amidst the stress, struggles, multi-tasking and tireless late-nights, I completed the requirements of the program and graduated Cum Laude with my MBA and in addition to a concentration in Business Law."

Congratulations to Miyah, and we're all very excited to get to know you and work with you over the coming years.

New Director of FDL Human Services

The Reservation Business Committee has had a busy month replacing some of Fond du Lac's most important positions, which also included hiring Samuel (Sam) Moose as the New Director of FDL Human Services. He will begin working for FDL on July 24.

Sam is a member of the Mille Lacs Band of Ojibwe. He joins us with an abundance of knowledge as his most recent job was serving as the Mille Lacs Band's Commissioner of Health and Human services.

Working as a member of the National Indian Health Board, Sam brings a vast experience in Tribal health which has led him to represent Band's throughout the country.

Fond du Lac has had a great tradition of providing excellent healthcare to its members, and Sam will no doubt help to continue that with his great knowledge.

The Old Village of Fond du Lac Graveyards in Western Duluth

1869 - This is the Ojibwa burial grounds before the railroad came through Fond du Lac. Before the digging started for the railroad, some of the graves were moved to the Roussain Graveyard.

Regarding the FDL graveyards One was for non Indians, another for Christian Indians and the third for non-Christian Indians. When the railroad came into the area, it crossed through the graveyards and some of the graves were moved to the Roussain Cemetery.

1900 - The Gust and Martha Nelson house. Today the above area is where the FDL office trailer is located. The workers are also sifting through tons of soil that were moved to a different area.

1956 - The Payton house and later the Shirley and Ray Ply's house. These three photos are in the same area. This area is 133rd Avenue West in old village Fond du Lac in Western Duluth.

Research by Christine Carlson

The left section is from page 23 of my book called Wa ye kwaa gichi gaming - Fond du Lac - End of Great Body of Water & A Visual Feast. The page shown on the left is of particular interest in what's been happening in the old village of Fond du Lac in Western Duluth. These three photos on the left show the graveyard areas but in different years. Since the interesting articles also included on this page are small and hard to read, they will be reprinted here.

Fond du Lac Yields Bones of Old Redmen - Duluth News Tribune of August 27, 1937

Machinery and man in preparing for the future, have once again delved into the mysteries of the past. A crew working on the new road which is being built through Fond du Lac yesterday unearthed an old Indian graveyard. The cemetery is believed to be nearly 200 years old.

Of special interest was a skeleton which was wrapped in birch-bark and an old Indian blanket. The blanket, of soft woolen material, was remarkable well preserved. Almost intact, it was torn by a steam shovel when it was unearthed. Bits of birch bark were evident on it. The skeleton also was broken by the force of the shovel.

The graves were found to be only two to three feet deep. Birch bark had been the only covering on the bodies. Among the bones found yesterday were four skulls, one with shiny black hair on it. John Richards of Ely, operating the shovel, unearthed the skulls within a small area. A muzzle-loading shotgun barrel also was found.

In a bank of dirt between the road and the railroad tracks, it is believed that there are many more such graves. In one particular spot it has been said there are at least 30 Indians buried. This bank probably will be dug away today.

Researching the Graves

Someone mentioned to me they had to find John Fritzen's book on Fond du Lac in order to read all the newspaper clippings shown on page 18 in last month's newspaper. Fritzen's name was mentioned three times in last month's story and some of his articles were quoted in it. Yes, I have his book and it was an inspiration to me as part of my research. However, the five additional newspaper clippings shown on the right side of page 18 are not found in Fritzen's book. They are part of my research on the graveyards. On May 30th, I scanned those five articles plus several more to Jill Hoppe in order to show proof that indeed this was a documented cemetery. You can't just notify MnDot that there is a cemetery there; you have to prove it. The evidence and clippings provided were some of the proof that could not be disputed. My name is Christine Carlson; I am still teaching and strive to get the 'word out.' Loving this old village of Fond du Lac.

Cobell Trust Fund settlement date is November 27, 2017. The following is the Whereabouts Unknown list. If you see your name on the list or have questions contact them at (800) 961-6109.

Thank You

Last month for the Highway 23 project story, I used five pictures with the article. I want to give a big thank you to Jill Hoppe for the great photos.

I would like to give another thank you to Christine Carlson who shared a wealth of information. She shared that information that Nikki Crowe and I used for our two articles about the highway project.

I would also like to thank Jill, Nikki, Wayne Dupuis, Reggie DeFoe, Kevin Dupuis, Bruce Savage, and Dan Huculak for all their help in putting together a very important and complex story.

Climate change vulnerability assessment and adaptation plan

by Philip DeFoe,
Air Quality Technician

Natural resource and environmental staff from the Fond du Lac, Grand Portage, Bois Forte Bands, and 1854 Treaty Authority partnered with Adaptation International and Great Lakes Integrated Sciences Assessments to create a living document that not only investigates climate change and how it is affecting our reservations and the 1854 Ceded Territory, but also has strategies on how we can address changes in our surrounding environment due to changes in climate. Climate change not only affects the living things around us, but also our landscapes and traditions as Anishinaabeg.

Resource Access

The land gives us life and in return we do our best to give life back to the land. In the Resource Access section of the climate change and adaptation plan we take a look at how access to natural resources is being affected due to changes in climate such as extreme weather events, changes in temperature, invasive species, and ecosystem shifts.

Floods, extreme snow events, and drought are projected to increase in the 1854 Ceded Territory and Reservations. Higher rates of erosion due to extreme weather events may limit or even prevent access to culturally important sites, trails, and traditional harvest camps. Increased days that are in drought areas will introduce a higher possibility of wildfires. Wildfires can be very destructive and have a detrimental effect on natural resources and access to them.

Projected ecosystem shifts due to changes in climate could limit or eliminate the ability of Band members to harvest certain culturally specific species like moose, snowshoe hare, cisco, white fish, wild rice, birch and maple trees, and some species of plants and berries. With ecosystem shifts, we are expected to see an increase in invasive species that would put more stress on some native species by competing for food sources or nutrients. Because the Bands are restricted to harvesting within the Ceded Territory or within Reservation boundaries, loss of access to culturally specific species could lead to loss of traditional harvesting practices or knowledge.

Our connection to the land reminds us to remain responsible and respectful to the life around us as Anishinaabe. The climate change and adaptation plan suggests that a decrease in traditional harvesting and access to culturally specific places may lead to increased economic and social issues. With loss of traditional foods available or being harvested, we can expect to see more unhealthy foods being consumed by Band members, which may lead to higher rates of obesity and diabetes. Over all, a loss of traditional practices could lead to higher rates of mental health stress due to economic and cultural identity losses.

The vulnerability assessment for resource access has a medium vulnerability to climate change. It was determined that resource access is somewhat sensitive to changes in climate and has some ability to adapt to those changes.

For further detail in the Resource Access section of the Climate Change Vulnerability Assessment and Adaptation Strategy Plan, or any of the detailed strategies associated with this section, please visit the Resource Access page on the Fond du Lac website and review the full document.

Stay tuned for my review on the next section of the plan in Septembers newspaper.

Ojibwe woman proves it's never too late to get fit

By Barb Norbeck.

Ms. Norbeck (Minnesota Chippewa Tribe) is a member of NICOA and lives in Alaska's Kenai Peninsula.

I don't let cold weather stand between me and exercise. I enjoy pulling on my cleated hiking boots, grabbing my walking sticks and taking a brisk walk on an icy sand beach on Alaska's Kenai Peninsula. It does something for my spirit. I can enjoy it now at age 73 because I have the muscle mass and tone to extend myself. I can actually work up a sweat! I credit my positive attitude and agility to a variety of reasons. I believe in exercise. I just wasn't applying it to my best benefit when I was younger.

When I remember my mom, she was always busy; taking care of a large family, gardening, cooking, canning, cleaning and teaching us kids how to care for a home. After mom had time for herself she went to work outside of the home. She was never one to do formal exercise programs, but she would walk after dinner, before dinner, before settling down for her alone time, or before going to bed. Mom was my biggest motivator.

While I worked until retirement at the age of 65, I usually managed to push away from my desk to exercise. I knew I had to get the blood flowing occasionally during my mostly sit-down day job. Another motivator was that I had some physical issues which made me realize that it was incumbent on me to do something.

I joined a community wellness program run by the Kenaitze Tribe at their Dena'ina Wellness Center on the Kenai Peninsula. I have been a member there for well over a decade, attending classes three times a week. Through the program I gained not only motivation and physical strength, but also sustained commitment to fitness and a deeper sense of self.

In my early 60s, I was carrying close to 200 pounds on my 5-foot frame. After two falls which led to fractures on both my wrists, a bone scan revealed the early stages of osteoporosis. My physician was ready with the prescription pad, but I said "no." I knew exercise and diet were more likely to give me back my zest for outdoor activity.

The wellness program was what I needed. I lost more than 60 pounds through guided diet and exercise. What the Kenazite program offered to me was phenomenal. Really life changing. I have 5 grandchildren who are very active – swimming, skiing, hockey, and snowshoeing.

My husband and I want to continue to do things with them for many years to come.

The program also gave me the tools to set new priorities. Growing up as one of 11 children in a hardworking Ojibwe Native family, I am a member of the Minnesota Chippewa Tribe, Fond du Lac Band, Cloquet, Minnesota. I learned early on to set others needs before my own. Part of my health journey has been to come to a better understanding of my Native culture and becoming a role model for other women who are like me and think like me.

My reason for telling this story is to help inspire and motivate others. It is never too late to consider investing in your own health. Regardless of where you are in your physical and emotional journey, take those tiny steps. Keep going. Join a group, stay involved, stay positive. There are fabulous programs in all of our Native health programs. Seek them out. Ask questions. Reach out to all ages. I know if I could accomplish these health goals, others can as well. Good luck!

NRCS Announces EQIP Signup for FY 2018 Funding

Agricultural producers looking to solve natural resource problems on their farms will want to plan ahead and sign-up for United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) funding. Cathee Pullman, USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) State Conservationist in Minnesota, announced that farmers interested in the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) need to apply by August 18, 2017, for funding in 2018.

EQIP is a voluntary program that provides financial and technical assistance to agricultural producers. These contracts provide financial assistance to help plan and implement conservation practices that address natural resource concerns and for opportunities to improve soil, water, plant, animal, air, and related resources on agricultural land and non-industrial private forestland.

"EQIP is just one tool for landowners who want to apply conservation practices on the ground," said Dave Wise, Tribal Liaison for the Duluth area. "By working with the local NRCS offices, you can apply for NRCS programs which work best for your land."

Applications for EQIP are accepted on a continuous basis, however, NRCS establishes application acceptance or submission deadline dates for evaluation and ranking of eligible applications. Contracts will be awarded to producers' with the highest rankings until funds are exhausted.

To learn more about EQIP, contact your local NRCS field office or visit the MN NRCS website.

Road construction coming to Cloquet

Just outside the Fond du Lac Reservation boundaries exists one of the most dangerous intersections in Northern Minnesota. That intersection, where Highway 33 ends and ramps onto/off of Interstate 35, is about to become a roundabout.

The work will begin the November to make it a much safer intersection. Drivers will no longer have to cross traffic that at times is still going 70 MPH when exiting Cloquet to head North on I35. Instead, all traffic will enter the roundabout at a much slower speed, exiting in the direction they wish to go.

Other projects to drop the volume of traffic at the roundabout and to increase safety have been proposed. To decrease traffic, it has been proposed to add another exit which would make getting to FDLTCC much easier, by placing an exit ramp at 14th street. The other would be adding an exit lane and extending on ramps at the Scanlon exits for safer traffic flow.

Oral, mouth, and throat cancer facts

By Denise Houle,
Cancer outreach worker

Did you know tobacco, alcohol, and HPV (human papilloma virus) are the leading causes of oral cancer? The HPV virus is the same one that is associated with cervical cancer in women. With early detection, survival rates are higher and side effects from treatments are lower.

Oral cancer is caused by commercial tobacco use, alcohol use, the human papillomavirus, sun exposure, and poor diet and physical activity. Oral cancer screenings are an effective means of finding cancer at its early, highly curable stages. HPV 16 is the strain of the virus that can lead to oral cancer. HPV 16 is the leading cause of oropharyngeal cancer or cancer in the very back of the mouth and base of the tongue. HPV 16 is found in about 2 out of 3 oropharyngeal cancers. These cancers are more than two-three times more common in men than in women.

Signs and symptoms include: sore in the mouth that does not heal (most common), red and/or white discolorations of soft tissue in mouth, sensation that something is stuck in your throat when swallowing, hoarseness that lasts for prolonged period of time, difficulty with chewing, swallowing, moving your tongue or jaw.

Make your oral screening part of your annual health or dental checkups for early detection.

Breastfeeding

By Kara Stoneburner,
RDLD, Public Health Dietitian

The first week in August is recognized as the World Breastfeeding Week. Breast milk is the optimal food for infants. It has the perfect combination of nutrients needed for babies to grow and develop.

There are many benefits of breastfeeding:

For baby:

- Breast milk is easy to digest and it is the perfect mix of nutrients for the baby
- It helps fight infections and illnesses so less ear infections, colds, diarrhea, or constipation
- Breastfeeding reduces the rate of SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome)
- Breastfeeding is thought to play a role in lowering the risk of diabetes, obesity, and certain cancers;

more research is needed.

For mom:

- Breastfeeding saves time and money
- It helps mom lose weight
- It lowers mom's risk of breast and ovarian cancers, osteoporosis, diabetes, and heart disease
- Diapers smell less
- Moms can pump their breastmilk for future use when she needs to be away from the baby for work or school
- Less worry about contamination from water sources or lack of safe water in natural disaster situations.

For society:

- No garbage
- Less lost wages for the working mom as breastfed babies typically get sick less often
- Less medical bills due to a healthier baby.

The duration of breastfeeding is individual. Many organizations (The American Academy of Pediatrics, the Academy of Family Physicians, the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics, the World Health Organization, and the WIC program) recommend exclusive breastfeeding for the first 6 months of life (meaning no formula or other foods). After 6 months, breastfeeding should continue, with the addition of complementary foods (like baby food), until the baby is one year old. Breastfeeding can continue after the baby turns one. The child continues to get vitamins, minerals, and important antibodies from the mother's milk.

Resources to help with breastfeeding questions and concerns include your healthcare provider, WIC, Public Health Nurses, Lactation consultants, La Leche League, and IBCLCs (Internationally Board Certified Lactation Consultants).

Climb in syphilis among Native Americans in Minnesota

By Rebekah Dunlap
BSN, RN, PHN

Native American people have a lot of inherent strength and knowledge that assist in keeping a community healthy. One way to do this is by staying informed about what is going on in and around the community. Today, this can be done by gathering information from places like the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH). They gather health information to help Minnesota stay up to date and healthy.

If you haven't heard already, MDH has reported a sexually transmitted infection spreading in local Native American communities called syphilis. Syphilis is spread by direct contact with a painless syphilis sore during unprotected vaginal, anal, or oral sex. The sores are usually found on the mouth, genitals, or anus. Sometimes the sores cannot be seen, so you may not know you have syphilis. The only way to know is to be tested. Women who have syphilis while they are pregnant can pass it to their unborn child. MDH is recommending that all pregnant women get tested three times.

If you are at all sexually active, ask about syphilis testing. You can keep yourself and your community healthy by abstaining from sex or being monogamous and using latex condoms correctly every time. If untreated syphilis can damage your heart, brain, or other organs which could be life threatening. Syphilis is curable and treatable, so ask your healthcare provider more and stay on your healthy journey.

Ticks – Ick! How to Prevent Tickborne Diseases

By Kari Hedin,
Fond du Lac Resource Management Watershed Specialist

That creepy-crawly sensation! Could it be a tick on your skin? Many of us are familiar with that feeling when we return from a trip to the woods.

The foresters and biologists at Fond du Lac Resource Management don't let ticks stop us from doing our jobs outdoors—and we don't want ticks to stop anyone from enjoying the woods and trails on the Reservation. However, it's good to be aware of tickborne diseases and what can be done to prevent them.

In April 2017, the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) gave a presentation at the Ojibwe School and at Resource Management, to give us the newest information on ticks and tickborne diseases in Minnesota. The MDH tick experts taught us that there are three tick species that can cause disease in humans: the blacklegged (deer) tick, the American dog (wood) tick and the lone star tick. The photo shows each tick species and the diseases associated with that species. Ticks hatch from eggs and go through a larval and nymph life stage before growing to adult size. Ticks feed on the blood of mammals and this is how they pick up diseases from animals such as mice. These diseases can then be passed on to humans when a tick bite occurs. The majority of tick-borne diseases, including Lyme disease, come from the bite of an infected blacklegged tick in the larval or adult stage. Keep in mind that blacklegged tick nymphs are very small (the size of a poppy seed) and hard to detect, but they transmit most cases of human disease. Blacklegged tick adults are the size of a sesame

In addition to Lyme disease, ticks can also transmit human anaplasmosis, Powassan virus and Rocky Mountain spotted fever, among others. Lyme disease cases have increased in Carlton County in the last 20 years, as shown by the time-series maps of Minnesota. Some of these diseases can cause serious health complications, and symptoms may not show up until a month after a tick bite. If you have been in tick habitat, watch yourself for signs of illness, including rash, fever, headache, muscle/joint aches and fatigue. Contact your doctor right away if you feel sick, as early treatment is the most effective at getting rid of tick-borne diseases. More information about symptoms and treatments can be found online at the MDH website on their "Tickborne Diseases" webpage.

Are you ready to wrap up in a blanket and never go outside again? Even though the stories of tickborne diseases can be scary, prevention and awareness and early treatment are the best protections. Don't let ticks stop you from enjoying the outdoors. Here are some ways to prevent ticks from attaching to your skin:

- Know when and where you're at risk
- Mid-May through mid-July, in wooded and brushy areas
- Wear tick repellent
- DEET 20-30% on skin or clothing
- Permethrin 0.5% on clothing
- Talk with your vet about tick prevention products for your pet
- Check yourself and pets for ticks at least once a day
- Remove ticks right away
- Check out the tick removal video on the MDH website for proper tick removal technique.
- Reduce your risk of tick encounters
- Keep trails mowed short

- Remove leaf litter and brush from your yard
 - Create a barrier between your yard and woods
- Tick identification cards and tick specimens will be available at the Resource Management Building and at Min No Aya Win. It's helpful to look at real ticks to get an idea for how small they are. It's also helpful to keep a tick identification card near the front door, so it's in easy reach. Further resources are also available online at <http://www.health.state.mn.us/divs/idepc/dtopics/tickborne/>. Contact the Vectorborne Disease Unit Minnesota Department of Health at 651-201-5414 with any questions. The material for this article was taken from a presentation titled, "Tickborne Diseases of Minnesota" by Franny Dorr, MDH Vectorborne Disease Unit, Minnesota Department of Health, April 2017.

Starr Shabaiash, the 2016-17 Ojibwe School princess took it upon herself to help by serving the stands at the Veteran's Powwow.
Great Job!

Thank you

Chi Miigwetch to everyone who attended my retirement party on July 7. I want to thank the food service staff at Black Bear Casino Resort who created such a wonderful, healthy feast for my family, friends, and co-workers. That was the best carrot cake I ever ate. I want to thank Barb Bassett and her waitstaff for making sure our needs were taken care of.

My biggest thanks goes to Ferdinand Martineau for making this wonderful party happen in the first place! Just when I was told earlier it couldn't be scheduled, Ferd worked his magic and for that I'll forever be grateful that he picked up the ball and ran with it.

I want to thank my co-workers Punky, Gail, and Mary who always had my back and looked out for me on the job.

Last but not least, I want to thank my family for putting up with my "Afternoon" shift work and me not being home to cook the dinner meal at night. Jack (my husband) you can now retire from kitchen duty!

Minawaa giga-waaba min, Shirley Schleret

FDLVS0 would like to thank the Powwow committee and all of the workers that made this year's Powwow a success. Thank you very much.

A special thanks to Taylor Diver and Herb Fineday for the work they did on jingle dresses and grass dance outfits.

Memorial

Beatrice Marie Huie (June 12, 1929-Aug. 1, 2014)

Mother-you have been in our thoughts filled with loving memories every day for the past three years. You are always on our mind. A family friend, Paul, shared a fun memory at the house in Golden Valley, how you danced a line dance with all the kids all over the house and it was so funny! Our culture is growing strong with the family and all your great and great great grandchildren have a beautiful heart filled with humor like you.

We love you and miss you, your family, Gil, Gail, Glenda, and families
