Fond du Lac selected as a Blandin Broadband Community

Blandin Foundation announced at its annual broadband conference in Duluth that Fond du Lac was successful in its application to become a Blandin Broadband Community, one of only nine selected in the state.

The Blandin Broadband Communities program is an intensive, two-year partnership between Blandin Foundation and selected rural Minnesota communities. The program provides planning and organizing support to regions that demonstrate readiness and resources to either bring robust broadband adoption to communities without it, or assist already connected communities to make the best use of information and services broadband can deliver.

A planning team of representatives from the Band's schools, its planning director, and the associate director of human services, prepared the community's successful application.

"As I often tell anyone who will listen, network connectivity is the encyclopedia of this generation," said Fred Underwood, MIS director for the Fond du Lac Band. "When I was in elementary school, encyclopedias were the tell-tale sign of the haves and the have-nots. There was a socioeconomic boundary between the kids that had access at home to encyclopedias and those who didn't. Now, it is broadband network connectivity.

"Here at Fond du Lac, multiple divisions and community leaders are working together to ensure that the network connectivity to the rest of the world are available to our community members. We know that it affects all areas of our members' lives--education, health care, community services, consumer shopping, and many other things. We understand that without this access our community suffers significant disadvantages and hurdles in retaining our population. We are committed to finding a way to provide this utility to our community, despite the fact that we have been deemed 'not financially viable' by the current available providers."

Fond du Lac is one of nine rural Minnesota communities designated as Blandin Broadband Communities. Communities were selected based on technology goals, current levels of broadband access and use, and ability to connect with other technical assistance and resources to meet their goals.

"The Fond du Lac community is ready and committed to take the next step with broadband, and we are delighted to be a partner in their work," said Dr. Kathy Annette, Blandin Foundation CEO. "We believe that, in the rich blend of education, the economy, inclusion and leadership, communities come together, defining and claiming their futures. This is especially true in a world more and more dependent on digital connections. We look forward to where our partnership leads!"

Next steps in the Blandin Broadband Community partnership include assessing the community's current broadband access and adoption and, in early 2013, a series of planning meetings.

FDLTCC celebrates 25 years

By Zachary N. Dunaiski

The Fond du Lac Tribal and Community College celebrated their 25 year anniversary earlier this month. The celebration took place Nov. 1 at Premiere Theatre in Cloquet, Minn. with the showing of a documentary of all the work, and all the people who made the college possible over the last 25 years.

An idea that started out as just a dream has now helped make dreams for many young aspiring students possible.

"This college often times serves as a stepping stone for those students that really do want to go on and beyond just a baccalaureate, for those who want to go on and get their masters," Bonnie Wallace, Scholarship program director said.

Wallace was there in the beginning and played a role in the early days of the college getting started. She talked about how back in the day, what started as a group of people bouncing ideas around turned out to be something that changed the community forever.

"I think this college has shown the non-native world, that we have proved to them that they have no choice than to respect our community more. Because our name is on that college, not Cloquet, not Duluth, our name," Wallace said.

It was exciting talking to Wallace about her college stories as well as those of students she had recalled. She finished with a great statement that many have about their college days as well, "Every student has their story."

Her own story is something that makes Wallace quiet proud.

"I had to leave, I had to find work. I had to get a job and there were no jobs here. So I think the great thing about us being entrepreneurs now is that our people don't have to leave, like I had to leave because of the college. They can stay right here and work or they can go to school, they don't have to leave their community. We have this strong tie to our ancestral land, and it's hard to leave it. But now we don't have to."

Wallace wrote a letter to the editor of the Pine Journal thanking all who contributed to the DVD and for those who donated to receive a copy of the DVD. If you would like to get a DVD of the 25 year anniversary, just contact Tom Urbanski, Public Relations Director at (218) 879-0800. Remember, any size donation is appreciated.

The mission of this publication is to provide the Anishinaabeg community of the Fond du Lac Band of Lake Superior Chippewa, Fond du Lac Reservation, with news and information that will be of help to them in their everyday lives. In addition, our goal will be to highlight many of the honors, accolades, accomplishments and awards that are earned by community members but are mostly overlooked by the mass mainstream media.

It is our hope that through greater information about the activities of our people, this publication can be an instrument of true community. It is not our intention to be a vehicle of divisiveness. To that end, we do not publish editorials, opinion pieces or letters to the editor. There is an abundance of opportunity for the publishing, airing and dissemination of material of personal opinion in other communication vehicles available throughout the area, region and state.

Our mission is to provide for Fond du Lac Anishinaabeg a publication that will not dismiss their culture, heritage, hopes and dreams. We are striving to make this newspaper fill that role.

Veterans Day Dinner

By Zachary N. Dunaiski

On Nov. 11, the annual Veteran's Day Dinner took place at the Black Bear Casino in the Otter Creek Event Center. One day and one dinner just aren't enough to honor all that our veterans have done for us. These men and women gave up everything in order to protect our country, and unfortunately some even gave their lives. That's why once a year we stop to thank them for all that they have done.

At the entrance of the event, many volunteers were there to hand out gifts to the veterans as they walked in. Blankets, crafts that the school children made, and other items were given to the veterans before they sat down.

The event started with keynote speaker Chuck Smith giving a speech to all the Veterans as well as their families and friends that were in attendance. It was a very heartfelt speech that even included a thank you to the RBC, because without them the event would not have been possible. Many of the RBC members were in attendance and it was wonderful seeing each of them honoring our veterans with the rest of us.

Sonny Peacock also gave a speech at the dinner. He recalled many events from his service time and also at times used humor to recall some events that probably weren't very humorous when they happened. Before the dinner were the prayer and songs. The whole room stood during the songs, and a sea of army attire filled the room. Many people even danced to the beat of the drum as the veterans marched.

It's always a pleasure being at such events, because it's amazing to feel the pride that these veterans have from their tours of duty. It's nice that we have at least one day to honor our veterans, but I feel that I speak for almost everyone when I say that we appreciate all that our veterans have done to keep us safe and allow us to keep our freedoms every day of the year.

A few thoughts from RBC members

From the Chairwoman

The Nelson Act Settlement was actually approved in two parts: the $300 per person payment, and then a 1/6 share of the remainder to each Band of the Minnesota Chippewa Tribe. As of this writing in the middle of November, your $300 share is being prepared for mailing in check form. The remaining amount of approximately $590 should be made available for a check distribution before the end of the year. Hopefully this is the last time you ever see an update on the Nelson Act because it will be done.

The Band has received all of the grants it needs to begin construction on the Veteran's Supportive Housing project. Veteran's experience homelessness at higher rates than other people, so there has been funding made available to make sure veteran's have access to services that meet their unique needs. The Fond du Lac project will have ten units for single vets who have experienced chronic and/or long-term homelessness. There will be a case manager that works with the tenants, and a partnership with the Veteran's Administration to make sure vets are receiving all the services and benefits that they are entitled to.

It has been very encouraging to see members of the community getting together to talk about how each person can contribute to improving the community. My understanding is that it has been focused on personal responsibility and involvement. We know that our community remains challenged by drug abuse and other behaviors that are not good for our safety and well-being. It is important that it is focused on the positive and not just the negative. Fond du Lac is fortunate to have so many good things going on from language and culture opportunities, our community centers, youth and elder activities, comprehensive human services department, scholarships, etc. Each one of us has to decide if we want to be a part of what's good in our community. These choices can be big or small. It is choosing words that are not hurtful, speaking to each other with respect, and positive problem-solving. In other words, living our traditional Anishinabe values of honesty, bravery, respect, love, wisdom, humility, and truth.

Best wishes to you and your families for the holiday season and the new year.

Boozhoo niiji,

This month was directed towards veterans at the Bear. We had a big band dance, half price meals, and a free buffet on Veteran's Day. I arrived a few minutes late and the first speaker was already half way through with his presentation, so I waited by the door for him to finish. The flag song was preformed after the first speaker and I took a seat to listen to the next two speakers and they did a fine job. The meal was served and the fellowship that has grown in our veteran community was displayed at its finest. The final part was the playing of taps and it is always moving. As we were walking out I realized that there had been no mention of Mary Northrup, one of the founding fathers and a real pioneer of veteran's right for FDL. She was a permanent figure when anything was being held for veterans. Mary you may be gone but you are not forgotten.

By the time you read this column the second portion of the Nelson Act payment should have arrived. It was a long time in coming. I was thinking about this settlement the other day and about the people that first filed the lawsuit against the government. I thought about how much $900 would have meant to them. In the 1940's it could have meant a new car or a new house. It certainly would have meant food on the table for a long time. Then I thought about how unfair it was that the government had taken so long to settle this suit that most, if not all, the people that filed will get no benefit from it. I guess we should be thanking them for their foresight to look out for us.

There were several community celebrations planned for Thanksgiving this year. As I always try to make each one it is very busy, but really fulfilling to be able to talk to all the community participants in a relaxed setting. I hope you were able to share your Thanksgiving with family and friends.

Hello all

Our Cloquet Community Center held a number of events throughout last month. They held a Halloween event that was attended by 179 participants. They held a basketball tournament and had over 100 community members participate. They also held a fry bread and chili contest that was very well attended. The community center also has a number of other activities scheduled throughout the month such as beading classes, water aerobics, Zumba and hip hop classes, and much more. Please see the web site for a schedule of activities.

Wally Dupuis

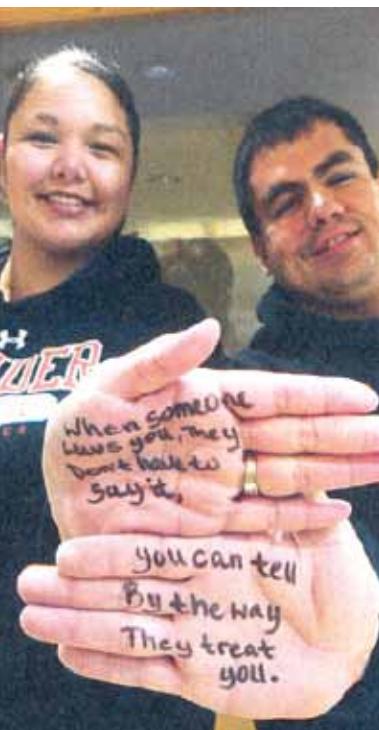

Our staff has also met with some of the youth and has allowed them to brainstorm, design, and manage some of their own activities. This seems to be working very well and I would like to thank all that have participated.

I was able to attend the veteran's dinner. The participation was good and the food was exceptional. I would like to thank all our vets for their sacrifice. I also attended a vets appreciation that was held at our Ojibwe School. It was nice to see the students honoring our veterans in the school setting.

Unfortunately, we, our community, was again victimized by behavior that is or could be dangerous to innocent people. We are learning that folks that have been banned from Tribal lands are being allowed into homes within our communities. As such, this is a complete disregard of the laws set out by our Tribal Government. Therefore, if you see any of these folks on Tribal lands or homes please call 911 and report them, because it could jeopardize your living situation.

On another note, the holiday season is approaching; I would like to wish you all a Happy Holidays.

etc.

Message Keeper, community awareness and support film

In response to the recent violence and long standing drug and alcohol abuse that has gripped our community, the Message Keeper film group is asking you to contribute your message to their short grass roots film with the purpose of sending a healing, supportive, positive, and locally relevant message to our community.

They are asking that you write a positive, healing, supportive message on your hand and to take a photo of yourself similar to the one pictured. They ask that you please include your face (although it is not a requirement) with the purpose that this film is for the community to recognize the individuals within the film, as a positive influence, a positive community member, a person making a positive change, and a person who cares.

What is your community message? Please send a photo to messagekeeperfilm@gmail.com or for more information contact Chally Topping-Thompson (218) 591-1267. Deadline for submitting photos is Dec. 10.

CAIR staff get together and celebrate Thanksgiving with co-workers.

CAIR's annual feast

Each year the C.A.I.R. staff gets together for their annual Thanksgiving feast. This has been the tradition for 15 years now. It usually takes place the week before Thanksgiving with the feast beginning at noon. This year the event took place on Nov. 14.

A few weeks before the event, a signup sheet was posted for everyone to contribute. We take turns reviewing the list and add on whatever we are going to bring. At the top of the list is the turkey. Gloria has been in charge of bringing turkey and stuffing since 1997. People bring mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, salad, vegetables, and all the other fixings for the meal. Desserts are numerous; everything from carrot cake to pumpkin pie. The food is cooked beforehand so it all comes hot and ready to go.

The tables are set: donned with Thanksgiving decor. We use two banquet tables in the Ordean room so there is plenty of room for everyone. In all, thirty employees take part in the feast. There is a lot of talking and stories to go around. You hear a lot of laughing coming from the room. As lunch winds down, you'll hear the usual groan of, "Oh, I ate too much". We all go back to work a bit tired but we make it through. A small cleanup crew helps wash dishes and returns everyone's food containers. Everything is put away and the room is quiet again. We all have a good time and are thankful for the opportunity to get together.

The Ojibwe Schools are dedicated to providing a quality education, which focuses on integrating the Ojibwe culture into all students' learning experiences. Every learner will have the opportunity to be challenged, to succeed, and to be prepared for the future. Junior Reporters - Culture and Art

By Gina M. and Savanna B.

Boozhoo! Come to our school! There are many beautiful works of art here at the Fond du Lac Ojibwe School. We have special paintings, clothwork, carvings, and murals. In the commons, there is a big quilt with lots of colors and animals and flowers in it. We like it a lot. Mrs. Margaret Big George, helped the FDL OJS Elementary students make the quilt the first year we were in this building, 2004.

The main colors are miskwaa (red), ozhaawaa (yellow), makadewaa (black), and waabiskaa (white). These are the reservation's colors, to thank everyone for getting our school built.

Our tribal school is special also, because it is the shape of a mikinaak (turtle). A long time ago, we read that our ancestors told about the mikinaak being an important element in the Ojibwe oral story about Creation. There seems to be different oral versions of the Creation story. We would be interested in learning what others have been taught or read.

News from the Fond du Lac Ojibwe School This month: Student Success

Michael Rabideaux,
Superintendent

As many of you know, our school operates as a Kindergarten through grade 12 Tribally Controlled Grant School that is funded by the Bureau of Indian Education. Our student population averages about 275 students per year. We usually have more students in the elementary through middle school grades (K – 8).

We have had several changes this school year. For one, we have hired a new building principal, Ms. Jennifer Johnson. Ms. Johnson is a Fond du Lac Band member and is a State of Minnesota licensed education administrator who has worked previously in the school in the capacity of Social Studies teacher. We have also hired five new elementary teachers because of one retirement, one accepting a position at a neighboring school and to maintain small class sizes. We practice a philosophy of keeping classes small to maximize teaching. Smaller classes allow teachers and students to work more closely and to develop the trust and support and immediate feedback to produce positive results.

We offer a balanced curriculum providing Ojibwe language and cultural teachings as well as the State of Minnesota's Standards and Benchmarks. For the 2011/2012 School Year, our students achieved Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) as measured by Minnesota's Comprehensive Assessment III (MCA III). The MCA III assesses students in grades 3-11 and determines whether students have achieved proficiency of reading and math subject outcomes.

We are proud of our student's continued academic accomplishments and attribute our success to an effective reading and math curriculum, dedicated highly qualified and skilled school staff, and a great work ethic demonstrated by our students with a lot of support from parents and guardians. Our success is also the result of smaller class sizes that reduces the teacher to student ratio. One extremely important characteristic of American Indian learning styles is that students tend to be more successful in smaller learning settings.

We encourage community members to visit our website to learn more about the programs we offer. We look forward to hearing from you. Miigwech.

Stock Market Game Math Happenings at FDLOJS

This year our students in the eighth through twelfth grades are participating in The Tribal Exchange Stock Market Game. Students who participate in The Tribal Exchange Stock Market Game learn more than investing. As they progress, they learn core academic concepts and skills that can help them succeed in the classroom and in life.

Starting with a virtual cash account of $100,000, students strive to create the best-performing portfolio using a live trading simulation. They have been working together in teams, practicing leadership, organization, negotiation, and cooperation as they compete for the top spot. The setup is engaging, and the learning is a natural part of the experience.

In building a portfolio, students research and evaluate stocks, and make decisions based on what they've learned. Teams trade common stocks and mutual funds from the NYSE and NASDAQ exchanges; earn interest on cash balances; pay interest if buying on margin and pay a commission on all trades. To determine why certain stocks perform the way they do, or why the broader market has moved up or down, they need to understand how the economy works, and to calculate their returns they need to do the math.

Not only does The Tribal Exchange Stock Market Game focus on math skills, it also offers a vast library of learning materials correlated to national voluntary and state educational standards in, business education, economics, english/language arts, technology, social studies, and family and consumer sciences. This resource has inspired many teachers to incorporate the program into classes in creative ways at all levels, from fourth grade to college, all across the curriculum.

The program also teaches and reinforces these essential skills and concepts: critical thinking, decision making, independent research, saving/investing, and cooperation and communication.

Students use real internet research and news updates, making the simulation an even better mirror of the real marketplace. Students who participate in the program gain confidence and build self-esteem. They have fun and learn more effectively as they see how their classroom lessons apply to the real world.

What students gain from The Stock Market Game™ program is a remarkable experience, and even more important, an education for life. For more information please visit www.stockmarketgame.com or ask a participating student about the details.

High School Financial Awareness Day took place Nov. 26 Math Happenings at FDLOJS

On Nov. 26, the eighth through twelfth grade students participated in a financial awareness workshop. This workshop was held in conjunction with the University of Minnesota Extension officers from the Extension Center for Family Development.

Our financial program objectives revolve around helping students understand how to handle money in relation to their finances as they become young adults. We hope that the education provided will carry over into their future years to help ensure financial stability throughout their lives. This is a great opportunity to engage our students in their own personal financial well-being.

In addition, the high school students have been involved in The Stock Market Game. This game is a real-time simulation of the trading practices that happen daily on the New York Stock Exchange and the NASDAQ markets. Through this game students are learning how to make financial decisions to help secure their future. Because of this, the financial workshop did not only include the importance of saving but also the importance of investing.

Some of the planned activities for the day included a representative from Woodlands Bank who focused on the importance of saving and bank services offered. Another representative from Wells Fargo spoke on saving and investing. In addition to that, Mr. Ferdinand Martineau also discussed options that our young people have for the future.

We would like to say thank you to the following people for helping make this a fun and rewarding day for our high school students; Rebecca Hagen Jokela and Jennifer Garbow: U of M Extension Educators, Jennifer Whiterabbit: Woodlands National Bank representative, FDL Insurance Service Director: Linda Bassett, for setting up our Wells Fargo representative, RBC Treasurer: Ferdinand Martineau, FDLOJS Principal: Jennifer Johnson, FDLOJS Superintendent: Mike Rabideaux, and the entire high school staff.

Check and Connect Mentoring Program

Lindsey Markwardt,
Check and Connect Mentor

I want to let everyone know that a new group will be starting at Fond du Lac Ojibwe School this month. American Indian Business Leaders (AIBL) is a national non-profit organization dedicated to empowering American Indian business students. The program is designed to engage students in learning by actively pursuing opportunities in business practices.

There was a brief meeting to inform students about AIBL on Nov. 21 in the commons. Students must be in 9th-12th grade to join. We will be having our first official meeting next week, in which we will be electing officers, reviewing by-laws, and planning events.

If you know of any students who might benefit from participation in the group, please encourage them to come to the meeting. It would also be great if high school teachers could announce the time of the meeting during classes on Wednesday morning.

If you would like to know more about AIBL or are interested in helping with the group, please let me know. I am really excited about what a group like this could do for our students and our school. Miigwetch.

SCUBA

On Nov. 16, ten students from the Fond du Lac Ojibwe School took advantage of participating in a “behind the scenes” tour of the Great Lakes Aquarium’s Volunteer scuba diving program. With the help of Ms. Maria DeFoe, Mr. Julius Salinas, and the Great Lakes Aquarium’s educational staff, everyone got a front row seat, seeing what it takes to provide a safe and healthy environment for the Aquarium’s fish and animals. The tour included watching and interacting with Mr. Salinas and his 16 year old son Isaiah, as they prepared for and completed a dive feeding, and maintaining one of the aquarium’s fish tanks.

If you are interested in becoming a certified scuba diver, watch for announcements from Ms. Maria for the After School program, beginning after winter break.

Students in grades 1 through 8 make gains in computations

Math Happenings at FDLOJS

Students in grades 1 through 8 are proving that they can compute at FDLOJS. Data has showed steady gains in each grade level as the students progress through the school year. Students are assessed using AIMSweb M-COMP assessments. In recent years the M-COMP assessment has been enhanced to increase its overall rigor and align more closely with NCTM standards.

Students at Fond du Lac Ojibwe School are given a benchmark assessment three times per year and frequent progress monitor assessments are given weekly or bi-weekly based on the student's individual level of achievement. Results from November have shown a significant improvement in computation scores since the beginning of the year.

Principal's Corner Aaniin/Boozhoo

Jennifer Johnson

This message is to parents and guardians.

Kindergarten-Sixth grade is excited about the new report card this year for our students. The new type of report card is referred to as a Standards-Based Report Card.

The purpose of any report card is to inform parents and students of progress made on the particular content covered in a 9 week period. Typically teachers take grades on homework, quizzes, and assessments and averaged those grades to come up with an overall score (A, B, C, D, F) for the 9 weeks. Even though this is the system that schools have traditionally used, it is not an accurate account of your child's achievement in a particular subject or standard.

The teacher's main responsibility is to ensure each student understands and masters the content being taught. For example, many times teachers give homework and the next day that homework is graded and put in a grade book. We believe the purpose of homework is to give students the opportunity to practice what they have learned, and to show both the teacher and student, areas that need improvement. Teachers may have to re-teach and model and have the student practice several times before they master the standard. We ultimately want students to learn the content or standards. With standards-based reporting, teachers will report the level of understanding at the end of a 9 week period based on the mastery level of the standards through quizzes, tests, and projects.

All submissions for January's newspaper must be in by December 10.

Patient Responsibilities

A friendly reminder from the Fond du Lac Human Services Division to all CHS eligible clients of their responsibilities pertaining to mail dropped off at Human Services Division.

- Contract Health Services (CHS) will not accept any unopened mail.
- Comply with CHS policies and procedures.
- Before patients submit their bills to the CHS office, they must notify the CHS office immediately of any changes that may affect the patient's eligibility status such as a change of address or change of insurance coverage.

- Before patients submit their bills to the CHS office, they must comply with all payment and claims information requests made by their insurance company. Patients must read the statements issued by providers and insurance companies to understand what additional information they may need to provide.
- Contact the insurance company if payment is denied for medical services (will be on the patient's statement) to find out why their claim was denied. This information will also be provided on the explanation of benefits (EOB) provided by the insurance company.

- Notify the CHS office at 218-878-3733 when an emergency room visit has been made after regular business hours and the patient was referred by the on-call provider.
- When referred to outside providers for services, patients must pick up the referral in person in order to discuss eligibility and payment options with the CHS staff.

Hot cocoa makers recalled

By Zachary N. Dunaiski

While they are seemingly uncommon, very interesting news as we head into these cold winter months on the Fond du Lac Reservation is that West Bend brand name cocoa makers are being recalled from the store shelves.

Focus Products Group International, who owns the brand of cocoa makers, is pulling the products.

According to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the small applicances have internal parts that may leak heavy metal lead while making hot cocoa. As of the time of this print, there have been no reported illness or deaths, but the FDA warns that lead leaking can be dangerous, especially to young children.

Anemia, kidney damage, and brain damage can occur from over exposure to heavy metals such as lead. While this is a seemingly serious problem, one thing to keep in mind is that we all consume small amounts of lead in a normal diet.

The only real risk occurs when too much lead has been consumed.

As Consumer Reports On Health reports back in May, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention had lowered the allowable blood lead-levels for children, due to concerns that their developing bodies can more-readily absorb and retain toxic heavy metals.

Again, while presumably the old fashion ways of making hot cocoa are probably the most common, consumers of these products are urged to immediately stop using the recalled Cocoa Latte Hot Drink Maker and contact Focus Products' Call Center (toll-free: 888-943-5202) for instructions to obtain a free replacement hot cocoa maker.

For a list of the faulty cocoa makers visit www.consumerreports.org.

Phenology, it's what is happening in nature

By Shannon Judd

Phenology is the study of the timing of natural events like recording the dates of significant moments in nature, such as when migrating birds return, lakes freeze and thaw, flowers bloom, sap begins flowing, wild rice ripens, etc. These observations provide a great compliment to the weather data we are all familiar with, such as temperature, precipitation, wind and humidity. We hear meteorologists talk regularly about what is normal or average for any given time of year based on over 100 years of data collection. Recording the actual events happening in nature over periods of time can help provide that same type of correlation.

Phenology is important because not only does it help us understand the interaction between wildlife, vegetation and the surrounding environment, it can help identify any significant changes that occur over time and help assess the impacts of climate change. For example, some bird species are nesting further north than ever before, wood ticks have expanded their territory and abundance, and other plants and animals are now being found further north or at different times of year. This year unusual weather has played a key role on the impacts of natural events. The mild temperatures last winter severely hampered sugar bush and the June floods damaged wild rice crops.

What can we expect in nature in December? Winter, when there is snow cover, provides a great opportunity to observe animal activity. Tracks, body imprints, scat (the scientific term for animal poop) all tell a story about what is going on in nature. Animals that hibernate or go dormant should be fast asleep. If temperatures are unusually warm, dormant animals, such as zhigaagwag (skunks), may wake up and be active until it gets too cold. Look at tree and shrub branches for waawaashkeshi (deer) and wabooz (rabbit) browsing. The best way to tell the difference is that wabooz will bite off the stem with a clean snip whereas waawaashkeshi tear them, leaving scraggly ends. Did you know a waawaashkeshi does not have top front teeth? Look for binewag (grouse) burrows in the snow – the snow provides insulation to help keep them warm at night and protect them from predators.

Over the past few years, different classes at the Fond du Lac Ojibwe School have participated in a phe-nology project where they go out to the nature trail periodically to make observations using all of the senses. We would like to invite the community to send us your observations to expand this to a community-wide project. Please email observations and any photos to Shannon Judd at shannonjudd@fdlrez.com or call

Holiday Lights Recycling

By Shannon Judd,
Environmental Educator

The Fond du Lac Transfer Station on University Road accepts holiday lights for recycling. Please do not throw them away. Additional collection locations will be added soon.

Thank you to all of you who recycled your holiday lights over the past three years. As some of you may have seen on the news, holiday lights are disassembled at employee training centers.

For example, lights collected at Fond du Lac are taken to Pine Habilitation and Supported Employment, Inc. Every part of these lights are recyclable; glass is crushed and used to make tiles, fiberglass, and asphalt; wire strands are reused to make new wire.

By recycling your lights not only are you helping to reduce the amount of waste going into a landfill, you are also helping to provide jobs for people in need.

You may also bring in telephone, appliances, and any other electrical cords for recycling. Miigwech.

Anishinaabemowin Lessons

By Charles Smith

Consonants used in Ojibwe make nearly the same sounds that they do in English. The Vowels are a little different though. Here they are:

i = ih (like the 'i' sound in 'it') ii = ee (like the 'e' sound in 'see') o = o (like the 'o' sound in 'oh') oo = oo (like the 'o' sound in 'boo') a = ah (like the 'u' sound in 'but') aa = aa (like 'a' sound in father') e = ay (like the 'a' sound in 'say')

Basic Rule for Ojibwe:

Wii Future tense maker meaning "want" or "need"
 Giiwose 'S/he is hunting.'
 Wii-giiwose 'S/he wants to hunt.'

The future tense marker wii- turned 'S/he runs.' to 'S/he wants to run'. It also changed b to p. Try practicing with other action words like: ricing 'manoominike', netting 'bagidawaa'waa', walking 'bi-mose', etc.

Some basic persons

Niin = 'I' Giin = 'You' Wiin = 'S/he'
 Wiinawaa = 'They'

Ingiiwose. 'I am hunting.'
 Niwii-giiwose. 'I want / need to hunt.'
 Giiwose. 'You are hunting.'
 Giwii-giiwose. 'You want / need to hunt.'
 Giiwosewag. 'They are hunting.'
 Wii-giiwosewag. 'They want / need to hunt.'
